WELCOME

Welcome to the Teacher Training Pathway (TTP) handbook. Here you will find all the information you need to train to teach Mindfulness-based Approaches with Bangor University and the Mindfulness Network.

The TTP is a way of training to teach via a portfolio approach that is flexible and adaptable to suit both your current situation and your pre-existing experience. There is no time limit for the overall Pathway, and we encourage you to develop your learning and experience at a pace that works for you and your life circumstances.

During your TTP journey the online Community site will support you in navigating the different aspects of training and experience that are necessary to complete the Pathway. You will work closely with a supervisor to develop your teaching, understanding of the program, and linkage with your personal mindfulness practice. You will build a portfolio which records your training, retreats, teaching and supervision. You will be connected into a thriving community of others on the TTP training journey, have the option of pairing with a TTP peer, signing up to the TTP members forum and coming along to drop in group mentoring Zoom calls held by the TTP Team so that we can practice together, check in and discuss the joys and challenges of training in mindfulness.

Completion of all parts of the TTP leads to certification as a Bangor University Centre for Mindfulness Research and Practice (CMRP) Trained Teacher. At this point you become eligible to register for the Mindfulness Teachers Professional Pathway (MTPP) module within Bangor University (BU), submit videos of your teaching for assessment with the Mindfulness Based Intervention-Teaching Assessment Criteria (MBI-TAC) and become certified as a Competency-assessed Teacher. Successful completion shows that you have met the BU's highly regarded and rigorous training standards to teach mindfulness-based courses (award 15 academic credits at Level 7 post-graduate).

In the following pages, you will find, an outline of the Pathway and the evidence you will be required to submit for each part; guidance on using the MBI-TAC for self-reflection, guidance on the role of your supervisor, mentoring and the online community platform supporting you through this process.

STRUCTURE OF THE TEACHER TRAINING PATHWAY

Your Teacher Training Pathway portfolio is built over time by attending, either in person or online, a series of training events and retreats and by keeping written reflections about your experiences as you begin to teach with supervision. Once complete you can submit your portfolio for certification as a CMRP Trained Teacher. You will then be eligible to register to have videos of your teaching assessed and become certified as a Competency-assessed Teacher in Mindfulness Based Approaches from Bangor University - the highest standard of a certification as a mindfulness-based teacher available. If you choose to exit the Pathway before this point, you can do so with certification as a Practising Teacher which enables you to begin teaching in line with Good Practice Guidelines.

TRAINING, RETREAT AND TEACHING REQUIREMENTS

TTP TRAINING REQUIREMENTS:

- A Level 1 Teacher Training - option to take as a seven-day residential retreat (TTR1) or a 7-day online training in either modular (two blocks of 4 and 3 days) or intensive (consecutive days) formats (TTO1)
- Specialist training in one or more of the following curricula: *Mindfulness based Stress Reduction (MBSR), Mindfulness based Cognitive Therapy (MBCT), Mindfulness based Relapse Prevention (MBRP), Mindfulness based Childbirth and Parenting (MBCP), and/or Mindfulness based Cognitive Therapy - Cancer (MBCT-Ca)*¹
- Two-day workshop: Inquiry
- Two-day workshop: Group process
- Seven-day Teacher Training Retreat level 2 (TTR2)

All TTP events can be taken in person / online or a mix of both options.

¹Please note: following your TTR1/TTO1 participation you can decide which programme/s (i.e. MBSR, MBCT, MBRP, MBCP and/or MBCT-Ca) you wish to embark upon. This will inform your choice of one or more specialist trainings, and ultimately the certificate of competency that you receive.

TTP RETREAT REQUIREMENTS:

In adherence with Good Practice Guidelines for mindfulness-based teachers, trainees are expected to attend annual, residential, teacher-led mindfulness meditation retreats. The Foundations of Mindfulness and Deepening and Extending the Foundations of Mindfulness retreats have been developed to complement the TTP. Suitability of alternative retreats must be discussed in advance. For further guidance on retreat requirements for the TTP see page 23.

TTP TEACHING REQUIREMENTS:

You must complete supervised teaching of three or more 8-week courses before submitting your portfolio for Trained Teacher. If you exit the Pathway at Practicing Teacher, you will need to have taught two courses. For more guidance on the role and requirements of supervision on the TTP see page 15.

PORTFOLIO SUBMISSION

Your Portfolio should document your training, retreat, teaching and supervision. A comprehensive list of contents for your portfolio can be found in Guidance on Portfolio Submission, see page 29. Once successfully submitted you will receive certification as a Practicing or Trained Teacher.

CERTIFICATE OF COMPETENCY

Once certified as a Trained Teacher you can register for the Mindfulness Teacher Professional Pathway (MTTP) module with Bangor University. This module involves submission of a video of you teaching an 8-week course, with an accompanying reflective written piece for MBI-TAC assessment on the MTTP Module. If successful you will receive certification as a CMRP Competency-assessed Teacher. We currently offer Competency assessment in MBSR, MBCT, MBCT-CA, MBRP and MBCP. More information can be found in Guidance on Final Assessment of Teaching Competency, see page 33.

APPLICATION AND ACCEPTANCE

You can apply to join the TTP here:

<http://training.mindfulness-network.org/ttp-application/>

Once you have completed your form, your application will be assessed and if accepted, you will receive your welcome pack and the contact details of your mentor who will shortly connect with you via email. Your welcome pack includes your TTP Map which will be invaluable in helping you plan your intended training pathway. Be sure to bring this completed in draft form for discussion to the first meeting with your mentor.

You do not need to wait for registration on the pathway to apply for and complete training events. All eligible training will be considered retrospectively. i.e. if you complete a Teacher Training Retreat Level 1 or other training event with us, it will count towards your TTP once you have registered on The Pathway.

CMRP MASTER'S STUDENT ENTRY POINTS

Successful completion of Teaching 1 on the master's is considered equivalent to Level 1 (TTR1/TTC1) training on the TTP and can be documented as such in a TTP portfolio. Students who have successfully completed the Teaching 2 module are considered equivalent a CMRP Trained Teacher and can therefore register for the MTTP Module with Bangor University.

TRAINING EVENT PRE-REQUISITES

COST OF THE TTP

The overall cost of your Pathway will depend on your experience so far as some previous training will count retrospectively towards your portfolio.

Each individual event can be booked through the Mindfulness Network calendar and has full details of the cost of training and accommodation (if residential). A breakdown of costs is listed below as a guide:

- Registration on the TTP – £150
- To complete the full programme of training and retreats the approximate cost will be between £5000 – £7500. We aim to offer a range of online and in-person events, including non-residential and varied accommodation options to suit all needs.
- Payment terms and fees for mindfulness-based Supervision sessions will be agreed and arranged directly with your supervisor. Most supervisors offer 1-hour individual sessions between £50-£60. Some supervisors are also happy to offer shorter sessions and reduced rates. Please see our Supervision FAQs for more details on the cost of supervision.
- Portfolio submission and assessment – £150 (Practicing Teacher) / £200 (Trained Teacher)

LEARNING OUTCOMES FOR THE TTP

- Reflect on and investigate personal learning and development as a mindfulness practitioner.
- Develop skills, attitudes, and knowledge to enable practice as a teacher of mindfulness-based courses.
- Demonstrate the importance of personal integrity of approach, ethical standards and mindful attitudes for teachers of mindfulness-based courses.
- Demonstrate familiarity with the teaching and learning strategies of mindfulness-based courses.
- Build skills to a level of competency in teaching of mindfulness-based approaches (MBSR, MBCT and/or MBCT-Ca) within the students own professional context across the domains of the teaching process.
- Develop professional skills by selecting, organising and evaluating teaching materials, to facilitate integration of theoretical and experiential learning.
- Deepen capacities to reflect on process as a teacher and practitioner of mindfulness.
- Cultivate awareness of professional and ethical issues, including use of supervision.

THE ROLE OF MENTORING

The TTP is a flexible training option. People progress through the Pathway at a rate that suits them, completing training events and teaching under supervision to build a portfolio. Group mentoring is there to offer practical guidance and advice as to appropriate structure, content and time frame. This helps trainees to make decisions and formulate plans to avoid becoming stuck or lost while on the Pathway.

On registration you will join the online Community site where you can access an Orientation Video. In the TTP Welcome Pack trainees will receive a TTP Map. This document helps to formulate a rough estimate for the timeframe and structure of an individual TTP. Throughout the year the TTP Lead will offer mentoring through quarterly group tutorials to continue to support trainees to progress through their training journey.

THE ROLE OF YOUR SUPERVISOR

The mindfulness-based supervisor role is to offer on-going guidance in personal mindfulness meditation practice, teaching mindfulness-based courses and the integration of personal practice into teaching. Supervision can take place over the phone, Skype, Zoom or face to face.

Mindfulness Supervision is: “A regular space that is contracted between supervisor and supervisee, which enables reflection on the supervisee’s mindfulness teaching practice and how this interfaces with their personal mindfulness practice and their life. The process is dedicated to developing and deepening the growth, understanding and effectiveness of the supervisee’s application of mindfulness, both personally and in their working life.” - Cindy Cooper and Jody Mardula

Mindfulness supervision includes a range of roles and functions; throughout the training pathway and beyond into your teaching career your supervisor will:

- Offer support and guidance on your teaching, including, recruitment, assessment of your participants, your skills development (including all the domains on the MBI-TAC), understanding the curriculum and all the different elements and support for participants post the 8-week course.
- Offer support and guidance for the on-going development and deepening of your personal mindfulness practice and support this interface with mindfulness teaching or one-to-one work – and in your everyday life.
- Bring the inquiry process into the exploration of your experience.
- Offer a balance of the supportive, educational and ethical strands of the supervision process.

- Define and draw out the integration of mindfulness in your professional role and offer guidance in professional boundaries.
- Mindfulness-based supervisors do not hold clinical responsibility.

Establishing a one-to-one relationship with a supervisor is of great support, especially in the early stages of training and teaching. Group supervision is also available with the Mindfulness Network and offers an opportunity to share in learning and insight with peers and a lower cost format for meeting ongoing requirements for supervision. There may be times in your training where you have 1:1 supervision and other times within a group.

HOW MUCH SUPERVISION IS REQUIRED?

We base our requirements on the minimum recommendations in the FAQ section of the Good Practice Guidelines developed by The British Association for Mindfulness-Based Approaches (BAMBA) as follows:

‘The regularity, length and type of supervision should be negotiated with a more experienced supervisor with reference to the extent of teaching work being undertaken, the level of experience of teacher, and the requirements of the agency. As a general guide, an inexperienced teacher might agree to use a minimum of three hours supervision over the period of an eight-week course. It is recommended that experienced teachers who teach regularly should have mindfulness supervision at least monthly during the periods that they are teaching.'

We also suggest that weekly supervision tracking an eight-week course is also hugely beneficial. Periodic recording aspects of teaching and using these for reflection in supervision will prepare you for the MTTP module ahead and help your formative learning (these can be short snippets for use in supervision).

HOW DO I FIND A MINDFULNESS-BASED SUPERVISOR?

We have a partnership arrangement with the Mindfulness Network for the provision of mindfulness supervision for TTP trainees. This is a charity which developed out of the work of the universities engaged in mindfulness training. The supervisors within this group are senior teachers, have taken mindfulness supervision training and have been carefully selected to join this team. The Mindfulness Network website has a list of recommended supervisors and their availability. There is a particular section that lists supervisors specializing in supervising those on training programs.

Once you have registered and chosen your supervisor, you will follow up discussions with that supervisor and agree a contract together. Your supervisor will invoice you directly.

Please note the following: If you already have an experienced mindfulness teacher as a supervisor and wish to continue working with them please discuss this with your mentor. We will contact the supervisor you would like to work with to ask for information and let them know what is required before agreeing that they can work as your supervisor.

HOW MUCH DOES A MINDFULNESS-BASED SUPERVISOR CHARGE?

This is paid for individually and is arranged directly between yourself and your chosen supervisor. The CMRP or MN is not involved in this transaction at all, it is purely an arrangement between yourself and your supervisor. The cost of supervision is not covered by the TTP fees.

The cost of supervision is set by individual supervisors so may vary between supervisors. As a guide, it is usually between £50-£60 per contact hour (£25-£35 per contact half hour) but this does vary between supervisors. Viewing recorded teaching practice by your supervisor has an additional cost often around £35 per hour (your discussion in supervision of your recorded teaching practice will be at the normal supervision rate).

Some supervisors charge an additional fee (usually around £25) to complete the Supervisory Learning Statement, this is part of your contracting process with your individual supervisor so please discuss this with your supervisor at the contract stage as it is likely to vary between individual supervisors.

WHEN DO I NEED TO GET A MINDFULNESS-BASED SUPERVISOR?

You need to have your supervisor arrangement in place before organising to teach your first 8-week course.

DO I NEED TO TELL THE TTP ADMINISTRATION TEAM WHO MY SUPERVISOR IS?

Yes, this is a requirement for the TTP, email training@mindfulness-network.org with the name of your mindfulness-based supervisor. If you change your supervisor for any reason, you need to inform of the change with a brief statement of the reason.

IS THE RELATIONSHIP WITH MY SUPERVISOR CONFIDENTIAL?

Yes, your relationship with your supervisor and the content of your supervision sessions is overall confidential, however:

Your supervisor will also provide reports and reflections on your supervision sessions, which will be part of your portfolio submission. It is intended that these reports will be developed collaboratively, and ideally you will come to an agreement about the content of the report.

Your supervisor may take any appropriate matters arising from this supervision to their own supervision process. All reasonable care will be taken to ensure the supervisee's anonymity.

Your supervisor may discuss other aspects of confidentiality with you during the contracting process.

CONFIDENTIALITY BETWEEN THE SUPERVISOR AND OTHER MEMBERS OF THE TRAINING TEAM:

All parties have a responsibility to the development of an ethical practice in supervisees and therefore need to be transparent around issues which impact on this. Where there is concern about a participant's safety, the Trainee's safety and/or the safety of those directly connected with the trainee's teaching of mindfulness-based interventions. A decision may be made by either Supervisor or one of the training team to discuss this, with each other.

If these concerns cannot be resolved, then discussions may extend to the TTP Lead. The outcome of any discussions will be made clear to the trainee.

Every effort would be made to discuss this with the supervisee in the first instance. The intention behind the whole process will be consistent with a stance of 'mindful ethics' – i.e. an intention to protect the interests of potential participants on the trainee teacher's courses and of the trainee teacher themselves.

THE TTP COMMUNITY

On registering for the TTP you join an online community of trainees that come together to practice, to support one another and to share in the joys and challenges of the TTP.

TTP MEMBERS FORUM

There is now a forum available to members of the TTP in which the community can connect, share learning and experiences and field questions and concerns. The MN team will be available on the forum to offer ongoing advice and support. Trainees will be given log in details in on registration.

ZOOM MEET UPS WITH TTP COMMUNITY

Quarterly mentoring zoom sessions provide a space for trainees on the TTP to connect, practice together and share in the joys and challenges of being on the TTP. Dates, times and Zoom links are on the Community site for all those registered on the TTP.

TTP PEER PARTNERING

Registering for the TTP gives an option to be partnered with a peer also embarking on their journey in Mindfulness Teacher Training. Peer support and connection can be invaluable in maintaining motivation and commitment. This option will be given to trainees on registration to the TTP.

WIDER COMMUNITIES

The Mindfulness Network and Bangor University are proud to support both The Mindfulness Network Community Friends (MNCF) and SiTT (Support for integrity in teaching and training) Community. MNCF aims to support mindfulness practitioners and developments at both the Mindfulness Network and Bangor University, while SiTT facilitates a community of mindfulness teachers and trainees that meet monthly in person and online to support one another to meet ongoing good practice requirements. More information can be found in appendix V and VI below.

RETREAT REQUIREMENT FOR THE TTP

In adherence with the BAMBA Good Practice Guidelines for mindfulness-based teachers', trainees are expected to attend annual, residential, teacher-led mindfulness meditation retreats.

The Mindfulness Network is working in partnership with Bangor University to deliver mindfulness-based teacher training and through this collaboration the Mindfulness Network has developed retreats specifically designed to meet the needs of mindfulness-based teachers. Drawing from contemplative and contemporary understandings underpinning mindfulness-based programmes, the retreats listed below have been developed by a working party of senior retreat and MBA teachers, specifically for trainees on programmes like the TTP. The retreats build upon different stages of practice and learning and are facilitated by a senior retreat and mindfulness-based programme (MBP) teacher, bringing together knowledge about supportive forms and conditions for retreats and intimate knowledge of MBPs. We offer two layers of retreat:

- I. Foundations of Mindfulness retreat
- II. Deepening and Extending the Foundations of Mindfulness retreat

The Foundations of Mindfulness retreat offers teaching on key underpinnings to mindfulness as taught in MBSR and MBCT. Deepening and Extending the Foundations of Mindfulness retreat deepens teaching on key underpinning frameworks to mindfulness practice. These retreats are taught annually, so we recommend booking ahead to ensure your place.

COMPLETION OF THE FULL TTP AND CERTIFICATION AS TRAINED TEACHER HAS THE FOLLOWING MINIMUM RETREAT REQUIREMENT:

- Foundations of Mindfulness retreat
- Deepening and Extending the Foundations of Mindfulness retreat

EARLY EXIT FROM THE TTP AND CERTIFICATION AS PRACTISING TEACHER HAS THE FOLLOWING MINIMUM RETREAT REQUIREMENT:

- Foundations of Mindfulness retreat

If these particular retreats are not possible for you or you would like to choose another retreat, please discuss its suitability with your mentor before committing to it.

Any alternative retreats should be a minimum of 5 days in duration; they should be structured and include teachings on the four ways of establishing mindfulness (four foundations), and the practices should be similar to those used within mindfulness-based courses, including some sitting and some movement practices such as walking or mindful movement; and there should be sustained periods of silent practice. Any alternative retreat should ideally be facilitated by teachers, who have both knowledge and experience of contemplative practice and mindfulness-based programmes (specifically MBSR/ MBCT).

If caring responsibilities make a long period of time away from home difficult to manage it may be possible to make practical adjustments around retreat requirements. This should be discussed with your mentor prior to booking.

A full list of retreats offered by the Mindfulness Network can be found here:

<https://booking.mindfulness-network.org/>

Gaia House also offer some retreats specifically designed for mindfulness teachers, such as 'Mindfulness, Insight, Liberation, MBSR/MBCT Foundations'; their website address is www.gaiahouse.co.uk.

GOOD PRACTICE

We expect all members of the TTP community to engage in good practice. All TTP trainees must adhere to Good Practice Guidelines as laid out by BAMBA and, when qualified, are expected to apply for listing with the BAMBA if based in the UK, if based in Ireland, Mindfulness Teachers Association of Ireland (MTAI), or the relevant body for those working internationally.

GUIDANCE ON DEVELOPING MINDFULNESS TEACHING SKILLS

PREPARING TO TEACH

- Developing your personal practice – the basis for all mindfulness teaching. If you do not feel able to maintain a daily practice it is too soon to be training to teach – we recommend you take more time out to deepen and strengthen your meditation practice before embarking on the TTP.
- Collecting and practicing with a range of other teachers' MBSR/MBCT CDs/audio downloads
- Participating in and observing other teachers' 8-week courses if possible. This is an invaluable way of learning more about the program, understanding more of the teaching process, especially enquiry, as well as deepening your own practice.
- If there are no 8-week courses locally, you could experience the mindfulness course afresh by taking yourself through the program week by week, if possible, alongside one or more of your peers.

STARTING TO TEACH

- Start by setting up your required supervision with a Bangor University/Mindfulness Network approved supervisor as early as possible.
- Assessment and orientation of your course participants is a crucial part of any course. This process will need to be carefully thought through with the help of your supervisor.
- Trainees also find it very helpful to pair up with a peer on a regular basis, to swap practice guidance and to practice enquiry and offer feedback to each other. The option to be paired with a peer will be given on registration to the TTP.

- Arrange a teaching apprenticeship, observing or assisting an experienced teacher before you teach the course yourself. Feedback and discussion of teaching points during this process is wonderfully useful. The Mindfulness Network have a small selection of teachers offering apprenticeship. Please contact training@mindfulness-network.org to find out more.
- Consider running your own first course or taster session for no fee, as a trainee (perhaps just covering any costs).
- Record your practice guidance at home (e.g. on your phone) and listen to it. This is a great way of developing your guiding skills and experience.
- When getting ready to teach an 8-week course, prepare your workbook or set of handouts week by week, with the idea of continuing to review and develop it as you gain experience and get feedback. Ensure that you acknowledge all your sources (Segal et al. MBCT for depression, CFM training materials, Bangor material, etc.).
- Stick to a straightforward mindfulness-based program (8-week MBSR/CT) and become familiar with that as you establish your teaching skills and practice. Remember that as a beginning teacher, you have the great advantage of genuine ‘beginner’s mind’, and of travelling alongside your participants rather than being ‘the expert’.
- Mindfulness meditation retreats deepen your personal practice. This is both a luxury and a necessity for mindfulness teachers!

- Costing in enough supervision time is very important. Suggestions are made in this document about the level of supervision needed for early teachers. If you are starting to teach 8-week courses, you will need more supervision.

 - To make the most of your teaching supervision, we recommend that you video record some of your teaching work and ask your supervisor to give you feedback on the recording. It is also highly valuable to reflect upon your teaching by viewing/listening to yourself

 - Make sure you are working within the Good Practice Guidelines for Mindfulness-Based Teachers and use the MBI-TAC to help you recognize and develop the skills required to be a competent mindfulness teacher.

GUIDANCE ON PORTFOLIO SUBMISSION

You can submit your portfolio electronically as an email attachment, sent as a zip file so that all sections are together. Include digital certificates within this submission. Portfolio assessment costs £150 for Practising Teacher and £200 for Trained Teacher. Trained Teacher Certification (for those already qualified by Bangor University as 'Ready to Teach', previous part 1 of the TTP, prior to April 2019) is £100.

Arrange your portfolio in a way that makes it easy for your assessor to check that all the criteria have been met and to make it simple to navigate.

Please send your portfolio to the TTP Coordinator (contact details on p.5).

PLEASE INCLUDE:

- A contents page
- A short introduction (no more than 1 side) introducing yourself and your context for teaching.
- Portfolio Record (Appendix II)
- Reflective writing
- Supervisor's report
- Bibliography of reading
- Training Event Certificates

SUPERVISOR'S REPORT

To submit a portfolio for certification you will need to include a supervisor report. A supervisory learning statement form is included in appendix I. If you are submitting for Trained Teacher, the report must confirm that your supervisor has watched videos of your teaching for discussion in supervision and that they are in support of your qualification at this level.

You are asked to keep a journal of your personal mindfulness practice, retreat experience, teaching practice and your experience of engaging in training for the duration of your TTP journey. This will inform your reflective submission. A journal can be invaluable in bringing increased awareness to your personal development and may also extend beyond this and help you reflect on the on-going dialogue between you as practitioner and you as teacher. Journaling supports the integration of your own practice into teaching, as well as integrating the experiences you encounter in dialogue with your class participants. All this adds to the rich tapestry which will deepen your skills and nourish your intentions for teaching.

The journal is intended as a vehicle for a personal reflection on the issues and processes you experience during your personal day-to day practice and during training and teaching. It will also serve as a record of any changes you may experience in your awareness, perceptions or behaviour as you continue the process. You can use the reflective journal as a precision tool for drawing out what you are experiencing and catching the issues that arise and exploring them.

We encourage this process to be as open and unedited as possible, bringing the qualities of acceptance and curiosity into your reflections and letting go, as best you can, of judgements that arise for you. It is a useful practice to see your journal as an extension of your practice by bringing similar 'ways of being' to it. Let go of any need to make formulations, engage in analysis or draw conclusions from what arises for you. Simply notice what is there and make a note of it.

SOME QUESTIONS TO CONSIDER:

What is my experience of training, teaching, retreat etc? How am I aware of this?

What has been particularly challenging or joyful?

How has my practice informed my teaching and vice versa?

REFLECTIVE SUBMISSION

The reflective writing requirement for the TTP is to inform you and your assessor about some of the important insights and discoveries that you have encountered along your journey. The content should reflect your direct experience - physical sensations, emotions, thoughts, and actions or impulses. This, mostly internal experience, needs to be clearly and fully described to allow you to bring awareness to it, and your relationship to it, identifying patterns of habitual experience and understanding different ways of working with these.

Your reflective writing will have a different focus at different stages of your pathway. Some of your writing will be descriptive of your direct experience, and some will be in-depth reflection on what you have described. Reflection is a skill that is useful for all of us and one that we can all hone. It is also a part of our mindfulness practice which slowly and steadily teaches us that we can begin to move towards insight as we engage in the process of disentangling the complicated web of our experience as it unfolds in each moment. The reflective writing can therefore be a powerful learning experience.

Whilst your journal is entirely for your reflection and learning, the summary you submit is intended to inform your portfolio assessor about your development of skills, attitudes and knowledge as you move into becoming a teacher of mindfulness-based courses. You should relate your journal summary content to the learning outcomes of the TTP.

Remember: Your journal summary should give the reader an idea of your journey from mindfulness practitioner to mindfulness teacher.

Practising Teacher Certification: up to 2500 words

Trained Teacher Certification: up to 3500 words

Trained Teacher Certification (for those already qualified by CMRP as 'Ready to Teach', previous part 1 of the TTP, prior to April 2019): up to 1000 words

INCLUDE IN YOUR REFLECTIVE SUMMARY:

- An overview of your context for teaching, and a brief account of your journey to this point.
- Some description of your current practice, its challenges and joys.
- One or two experiences which stand out as formative for you - these might be during training, retreat, teaching, supervision etc.
- Reflect on your learning from training and supervision.

Remember: Your portfolio is providing your assessor with information about your personal development and skill as a teacher.

MINDFULNESS TEACHER PROFESSIONAL PATHWAY MODULE (MTPP)

Once you have successfully submitted your portfolio and become a CMRP Trained Teacher you will receive a registration link to enable you to sign up for this module within Bangor University. Registration takes place at two time points each year – September or January. Those registered in September must submit by January, those registered in January must submit by May. It is wise to either have a course already recorded prior to registration, or certainty that it is achievable within this time span. Module registration fees cannot be refunded if you are unable to submit on time.

THE MODULE WILL INVOLVE:

1. Attending online teaching on professional and ethical issues in mindfulness-based teaching.
2. Submission of a portfolio for MBI-TAC assessment which includes audio-visual recordings of an entire 8-week course with an accompanying written reflective analysis.
3. Group tutorials to support your engagement with the written submission.

You may use a recording you already have, but the teaching must have taken place no more than 12 months prior to registration on the module.

There is a separate handbook for this module which details the requirements for the submission. When you are ready to record your course for this module please contact the Module Organiser (P.5) within the university. If you are successful in this assessment you will be certified a Competency-assessed Teacher.

The TTP offers the potential to train in MBSR, MBCP, MBRP, MBCT or an adapted form of MBCT for people with cancer – MBCT-Ca (developed in North Wales by Trish Bartley, and now widely disseminated). For final assessment videos of your teaching must adhere to one of these curricula only.

The MBSR curriculum is laid out here:

<https://www.umassmed.edu/globalassets/centerformindfulness/documents/mbsr-curriculum-guide-2017.pdf>

The MBCT curriculum is available here:

Segal, Z. V., Williams, J. M. G., & Teasdale, J. D. (2013). Mindfulness-based cognitive therapy for depression: A new approach to preventing relapse. New York: Guilford Press.

It can be appropriate to adapt the curriculum for a particular population and context. However, during your training we urge some caution around this and advise that you use your supervision as a space to explore curriculum and personal intentions prior to making adaptations. There is a lot of wisdom in embedding your learning very thoroughly in the programme forms as they have been developed and laid out. If you do adapt in the future it is good to do this from a position of deep understanding of the source programme. If you make significant adaptation, it is important that you rename your curriculum to preserve the integrity of the original programmes and present your adaptation with clarity to your participants.

The Certificate of Competence that you ultimately receive will relate to the specialist training that you have undertaken, the specific course that you have submitted for assessment, and the level that you have been assessed at for this particular course.

If you would like to receive a separate certificate for multiple curricula you can do this within your MTPP module submission if you:

- Attend relevant specialist training
- Submit a whole course for review and anchor your essay to one programme as laid out in the handbook
- Simultaneously submit 1 full session for assessment of the other model (session 5 of MBCT or session 6 of MBSR)
- Pay the marker directly for the additional time required (around £150)
- Ensure that your supervisory learning statement references that supervision has been tailored to the specifics of each model (i.e. you will need a supervisor who is experienced in both models)

If you cannot submit evidence of teaching both models within one submission, you can gain a certificate in the other model is to undertake a separate new submission at a different date by taking the Mindfulness Teachers Professional Pathway module again.

POPULATION GUIDANCE

The recommendation of the BAMBA good practice guidelines for teaching mindfulness-based courses is for teachers to have training and/or knowledge and experience of the population in which they are teaching. We recognize that a percentage of the general public and other non-clinical groups experience factors that significantly impact their mental health and wellbeing. We therefore strongly recommend teachers working in these contexts without clinical background, undertake a 2-day training in Mental Health First Aid. Courses are widely available.

LANGUAGE OF DELIVERY AND SUBMISSION

Generally, our trainings are delivered in English and therefore require you to be a fluent English speaker. Your portfolio must be in English. It is fine though to teach in your own language in your context. We do deliver a TTP in MBCT in Spanish in Spain. If you are participating in this program you can submit your portfolio in Spanish – contact us if you would like to hear more about this.

The assessment of teaching competence is held within Bangor University. For this module you are required to submit video recordings of your MBSR or MBCT teaching practice in your professional context. In addition to English language submission, we currently can accept video recordings in Spanish, French and German provided you provide a full transcript of one session (please contact us once your recording is complete and we will let you know which session we require). The transcript must include all the words spoken by participants and teachers.

If you would like to submit in a language other than English, French German or Spanish, please contact Sophie Sansom to discuss. It will depend on trained marker availability. Your written submission must be in English.

Throughout the TTP you will be engaging with training and self-reflection/assessment using the MBI-TAC - see mbitac.bangor.ac.uk

The development of these criteria was led by Rebecca Crane at Bangor University in collaboration with the Bangor training team and colleagues in the mindfulness training Centre's at Exeter and Oxford Universities. The Master's programs at these centers all use these criteria to assess teaching practice skills, and they are also being adopted by training organizations in Europe and the USA. To the individual practitioner these competency criteria can be used as a reflective tool to support learning as skills in teaching mindfulness-based courses develop. To the training organization the MBI-TAC offers a transparent methodology for assessing a student's skills, and a way of systematically offering feedback on teaching strengths and learning needs to support ongoing development.

The criteria have been developed primarily to respond to a range of contexts in which competence of a mindfulness teacher is a central question. They are also used by trainers and supervisors as a developmental tool to offer clear feedback to trainees and pointers for development, in this way they can also be used as a guide for self-assessment.

One cannot expose oneself to the rigor of being assessed, including self – assessment, without experiencing some vulnerability, so this work asks for deep sensitivity and respect from all of us involved in it. In all contexts nurturing your development as a trainee teacher is the core issue of concern. It is important to bring awareness, kindness and patience to the process of learning and to use the self-assessment tool skillfully in the service of self-development rather than self –judgment.

The purpose of the MBI-TAC in this context is as a guide for trainees to your progress in development of skills and areas for further development; to give a common language between trainee, mentor and supervisor and a structure to the evidence required to ascertain teaching competence. We recommend that you reflect personally and with your supervisor on the domains within the teaching process exploring your strengths and learning needs.

PRINCIPLES TO BEAR IN MIND WHEN USING THE ASSESSMENT CRITERIA

In assessing competence using these criteria, trainees should bear several principles in mind:

- The scaling assumes that competences develop over time, moving towards greater competence with training, practice and feedback.
- The descriptors of competency within a domain are progressive – i.e. higher-level skills include skills already described in previous bandings.
- The domains are not ranked in any order of importance, but some are more substantial than others – i.e. there are a greater number of features to consider.
- The domains describe processes, which are at play throughout the teaching. At any one moment several domains will be in action. For example, during the teacher-led dialogue which follows a mindfulness practice, Domain 1 will be relevant (appropriateness of the contents of the themes that are being drawn out, pacing of the session); Domain 2 will be relevant (the relational aspect of the conversations); Domain 3 will be relevant (the embodiment of mindfulness during the inquiry process); Domain 5 will be relevant (the quality of the teaching process inherent within the dialogue); and Domain 6 will be relevant (the quality of awareness and responsiveness to the group process during the dialogue).

The skills and processes represented by the domains are all highly interconnected with each other making it challenging to discriminate what skills are being demonstrated within each domain.

APPENDIX III: VIDEO RECORDING GUIDELINES

As you will be submitting recordings of a whole 8-week it is essential that you prepare for this by practising recording yourself teaching. This will ensure that you have the technological skills and are also prepared for any psychological effect of being recorded, which can affect your teaching initially. Remember to contact Rebecca Crane before embarking on recording the course you plan to submit. You will also though be recording some of your teaching to share with your supervisor – so the information below will be helpful for this and will help you prepare for the bigger submission.

Get some help: If you have not used a camera before, ask for help and advice from a friend or a colleague who has used a camera. Perhaps even borrow a camera to practice with.

Pick the right camera: If you are buying or hiring a camera or video camera, it needs to have good sound and a reasonably clear picture (don't worry too much about pixels – if it's a recent digital camera it will be good enough). It is usually helpful to attach an external microphone to a camera. Don't forget to make sure your camera has all the connectors it needs to transfer your footage to the computer.

A video camera and some new cameras will record continuously for 2 hours; other cameras will record for a maximum of 30 minutes. If you have a camera that only records for 30 minutes, you will need to find a way to restart the camera after each 30-minute period, which could be difficult if you do not have a helper. It would also be easier to make sure that the SD card in the camera will take a 2-hour recording.

There is a lot of different software available to convert your media if required to MP3, MP4, or MPEG format. In most cases, the computer will come with software to do this. You can also buy more advanced software packages, or there is free software available on the internet which converts video files. Have a google to find out how to do this in a way that is compatible with your computer equipment.

Make sure the sound is as good as the picture. To be assessed properly, it is essential that we can hear both you and your participants clearly. Remember that the assessor will not be able to see the participants' faces, which makes the sound quality even more important. Make at least one test recording before you start teaching. As far as possible, make sure that there are no loud noises from outside the room (e.g., construction work) which might make it difficult to hear what is being said on the recording (you may need to shut windows and doors). If the sound quality is doubtful, try using an external microphone.

Make sure there is enough light in the room to allow a clear picture.

Put the camera somewhere stable. You don't want the camera to fall over or tilt while you are filming. It might be worth purchasing a tripod. Otherwise make sure that there is a surface or table at the right height and in the right place for you to rest the camera.

Check where you are aiming the camera. It is important to make sure that you are filming what needs to be seen. It is important to see the whole of your face and not just a side view. As much of your body as possible should be in camera view (so the assessor can see your body posture); at the same time, avoid having the camera so far away that your face cannot be seen clearly. As far as possible, your participants should not be in the camera for reasons of confidentiality. You may be able to position the camera between two participants (perhaps looking over their shoulders) on the other side of the circle to yourself. Putting the camera inside the circle is very intrusive, but too far outside makes the picture small and the sound too quiet. Find a balance that suits your situation.

It is important that you are audible all the time and visible most of the time. This includes being visible and audible whilst guiding practices lying down (body scan, mindful movement) and standing (stretch and breath). At times, you may be audible but lose some of the picture for short periods e.g. when transitioning between sitting and lying down, or when teaching walking meditation and you go out of sight of the camera.

If possible, have someone else operate the camera for you. This is particularly helpful when you are recording for summative assessment, so that your attention can be fully on your teaching (not on the camera) and you can always be kept 'in shot'. It is important that your helper is also a participant in the class and not a passive observer. This could be someone who has done the course before and is happy to do it again and operate the camera for a reduced fee or free course.

Practice where to place the camera before the start of each session and decide how to position the camera when you move from your chair – e.g. to the flip chart, a body scan or a movement practice. If moving the camera would interrupt the teaching process or distract the group, e.g. in a walking practice, it is possible to point the camera towards the floor or a wall and to have the sound only recorded for short periods (but remembering to point the camera at you afterwards).

Be aware of the effects of recording on yourself. If you are worrying about whether the camera is working etc. it can distract you from your teaching. Also, you may feel initially uncomfortable about being recorded. It is helpful to practice recording yourself as early as possible in your teaching (before you come to make the recordings for assessment) so that it begins to feel more comfortable. Watching your recordings will give you a greater sense of familiarity and ease. Your mindfulness practice, especially grounding yourself in your body, will be a support with any feelings of anxiety or self-consciousness. Remember that that recorded teaching is very helpful indeed for you to watch, learn from and give yourself feedback on and is part of the supervision process.

Be aware of the possible effects of recording on the group members You will need to tell your participants in advance about being recorded and ask for their consent (see consent form). Talking it through in a matter of fact and reassuring way is helpful, as is being clear that recording is for supervision or assessment purposes only and that the recordings will only be seen by you and your supervisor and assessor. It is important to be clear with participants about whether they will be in view or not, and that only you are being filmed and not them. Remember that inadvertent recording of participants often occurs e.g. when they forget about the camera or when they are doing movement or walking. Usually if you are relaxed about the camera and process of recording, your participants will accept it as part of the furniture and will be supportive of your work, seeing it as part of ensuring high standards in teaching.

PRACTICE! This is the most important thing of all. Test out the functions and settings on your camera before you start the recording sessions. Remember to take the lens cap off and press all the right buttons to start the recording. Make sure your memory cards record for long enough. The amount of recording time each card can hold will depend on the type of camera and size of the card. Check before you start (sometimes the remaining time will be shown on the screen). Make sure your speaking voice is loud enough and the light is enough.

PERMISSION TO VIDEO RECORD SESSIONS

Please check the audio-visual recording policy for the organization you work for and ensure that your procedures adhere to this. You will need to get consent for being video recorded from all participants on the course you are recording for your supervisor and for the assessment.

On the following page is a sample consent form to use with the participants on your course for recording for your supervisor.

There are sentences for your information that will need to be deleted. You may need to adapt the form for your own circumstances in which case we ask that you check with your supervisor before the course starts and include all the areas cited on the form below. If in doubt, please check with your supervisor.

APPENDIX IV: VIDEO RECORDING INFORMATION AND CONSENT FORM

I confirm that I have been informed that the mindfulness session in which I am participating will be video-recorded as part of the on-going training and development of the instructor, who is training to teach Mindfulness-Based Courses

I understand that the session is videotaped for educational purposes, to record the work of the instructor for supervision. I understand that the camera will as far as possible be trained on the instructor

I understand that the videotapes will remain confidential, and will only be seen by the instructor and his/her supervisor and will be destroyed once they have served their educational purpose

I agree to take part in a session that is being videotaped, and for these tapes to be used for the purposes given above. I have had an opportunity to ask questions, and any questions that have been asked were answered satisfactorily. I have been given a copy of this information and consent form to keep.

To hear more about MNCF activities and events, sign up to the Mindfulness Network monthly newsletter. You can also follow on Facebook and Twitter where regular updates are posted.

Being a Community Friend is an open invitation, not a membership. Please take the time to look around the new Community Friends area. While still under development, the ambition is for this to be a thriving hub where you can connect and practice, ask questions, share and support each other. The space is yours.

If you have ideas and enthusiasm and would like to volunteer to help the MNCF Committee, please contact communityfriends@mindfulness-network.org.

A warm welcome and we are looking forward to connecting with you in the future.

APPENDIX VI: SITT COMMUNITY

SUPPORT FOR INTEGRITY IN TEACHING AND TRAINING

WHAT IS SITT?

SITT facilitates a community of mindfulness teachers that acknowledge one another's experience and expertise and support each other to meet ongoing good practice guidelines. All SITT affiliated activities, including monthly group meetings, community days and retreats, are run and led by the participants on a co-operative basis and are therefore described as "peer-led". This approach, conducted mindfully and in an atmosphere of mutual care and co-operation, means the events are a form of practice in and of themselves. SITT believes that formal supervision and teacher led retreats are necessary for ongoing good practice. The peer-led model is intended as an additional support to mindfulness teaching and training and not as an alternative in meeting Good Practice Guidelines.

The role of SITT is to facilitate peer-led activities by connecting members, arranging logistics, guidelines and personal contact for information, advice and support. The aspiration is for SITT to develop a community of mindfulness teachers, trainers and trainees.

FOUNDATIONS OF THE SITT COMMUNITY

Mindfulness practice leads to a greater awareness of our common humanity. We all get stressed, we get scared, we worry. We all generally want to be happy, love, feel loved and have peace of mind; it is part of the human condition. Through practice we also become aware that the quality of our lives is directly related to the way we act and react to other people, that we are fundamentally interconnected, and that competition and personal gain therefore make little sense. These realisations are, however, strikingly easy to forget as we go about our day to day lives, especially our professional lives – even as mindfulness teachers. Reminding ourselves of this is a practice and this practice forms the foundation of the SITT Community.

BACKGROUND AND BEGINNINGS

SiTT started with a group of mindfulness teachers based in Exeter who recognise the value of community in commitment to personal practice and authentic teaching. Others came on board and the SiTT community started to grow. SiTT members attend monthly group meetings, community days, practice days and peer-led retreats.

OBJECTIVES

1. To facilitate a community of mindfulness teachers, trainers and trainees that support one another to uphold integrity and meet good practice guidelines.
2. To enable mindfulness teachers to use relationships within the community as an opportunity to practice self-awareness and common humanity.
3. To lower the financial commitment of meeting ongoing good practice requirements for the mindfulness teaching community.

SITT GROUP MEETINGS

Monthly meetings offer teachers the space to come together for practice, peer reflection and connection. The 2-hour meetings start in silence which is maintained until after the 20-minute arrival sit. This is followed by a 40-minute peer reflection segment in which mindful communication and skilful responding support teachers to reflect around a theme, such as one of the domains of the MBI-TAC, an attitudinal foundation or something more specific to their specialism. The group then moves into a 20-minute tea break in which connections and relationships are formed in areas outside of mindfulness teaching. The group comes back together for the final 40-minute sitting practice.

Members can attend any open group once as a participant and then enter the rotation to facilitate the monthly meetings. This may feel like a challenge for some which presents a valuable opportunity for using practice to resource and turn towards. Those wishing to set up a new group, either open to any community member or closed for those working within a specialism, should contact SiTTmindfully@gmail.com.

COMMUNITY DAYS

While monthly meetings support connections between teachers working closely with one another, either by geography or by specialism, Community Days bring together teachers, trainers and trainees applying mindfulness across a range of fields and locations. This creates a bigger container for learning and connection. Workshops focus on mindful communication, community building and peer reflection on teaching and practice. Community days are also an opportunity for members to get updates based on shared learning from the community.

SITT COMMUNITY

- A choice of monthly SiTT Group meetings, either in person or online.
- SiTT Group induction for those wishing to set up new groups. Groups can be open to the whole community or closed to those working within a specialism.
- Ongoing support and coordination for monthly groups, community days and retreats and further development of the broader SiTT community.
- SiTT member logo to demonstrate commitment to good practice
- Community Days
- Practice days
- Facebook and Whatsapp Groups

SITT CONTRIBUTIONS

To contribute to the SiTT community, you can either

- ✓ Offer your time in coordinating a local group, either in person or online.

✓ Offer to assist with the administration of SiTT

✓ Offer to donate.

Some members offer a minimal monthly donation via direct debit, others donate annually. We also welcome singular contributions. 100% of all donations and contributions go towards supporting the community to continue, grow and hopefully one day flourish.

If you would like to contribute to SiTT please contact SiTTMindfully@gmail.com.
